SUBJECT: GOVERNMENT, CHIEF JUSTICE'S ATTORNEY REFUSE TO COMPROMISE, CASE CONTINUES IN SUPREME COURT

REF: ISLAMABAD 2033 AND PREVIOUS

Classified By: Charge d'Affaires Peter Bodde, Reasons 1.4 (b), (d)

¶1. (U) Since May 14, Pakistan's Supreme Court has held daily hearings to consider 23 petitions objecting to the filing of a reference against Chief Justice Iftikhar Mohammad Chaudhry.

The Court has issued no opinions since the opening of arguments. Supreme Judicial Council proceedings against the Chief Justice remain in suspense while the Supreme Court hears arguments about the constitutionality of convening the Supreme Judicial Council.

¶2. (C) On May 11, Former Pakistan People's Party Senator Abdullah Riar hosted a quiet meeting at his residence between National Security Advisor Tariq Aziz and Chief Justice Chaudhry's lead counsel, Aitzaz Ahsan, to encourage outside-the-courtroom dialogue between the two sides. According to Riar, the meeting did not go well. Both sides stuck to their formal talking points, and Aziz reportedly remarked that it would be better for Musharraf to accept the court's judgement than to withdraw the reference. The tense meeting ended with both sides saying, "We will see you in court."

¶3. (C) On May 15, Acting Chief Justice Rana Bhagwandas appointed two Supreme Court justices to supervise the investigation into the murder of Supreme Court Additional Registrar Hammad Raza. Four unidentified men entered Raza's home in the early morning hours of May 14 and shot him to death. Police initially characterized the incident as a robbery, but Raza's wife (also a British citizen) and others have claimed that it was a targeted killing. Munir Malik, one of Chief Justice Chaudhry's defense attorneys, told us that Raza and the Chief Justice were close associates. Chief Justice Chaudhry brought Raza with him from Balochistan when he came to Islamabad to take the position of Chief Justice.

After President Musharraf filed the reference against Chaudhry, Pakistan's intelligence and security agencies reportedly questioned Raza several times, according to Malik.
The court has directed police to submit daily status reports on the investigation to the supervising Supreme Court judges.
